BIO

Lisa Cunningham is an Atlanta native with over 25 years of active involvement in the film production community. She is Creative Director at Radiant3, a boutique production company/agency. With a strong footing in health, social justice and DEI digital content, Lisa has produced and directed projects for companies like McDonalds, Ford Motors, W Hotels, Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta Airport, The City of Atlanta and The History Channel. Lisa has also collaborated with many non-profits such as the Black Women's Health Imperative and has developed digital content for national breast and cervical cancer awareness campaigns with talent such as Mary J. Blige and Ciara.

Lisa is also an inspirational speaker and host within the DEI arena and has produced digital content and events within that space. As an influencer, she was selected by Atlanta Mayor Keisha Lance Bottoms to serve on the inaugural LGBTQ Advisory Board for the City of Atlanta and re-engaged with the current Mayor, Andre Dickens, for his Transition Team and Year of the Youth Campaign. Lisa is a CVS Health CTS Ambassador, a member of Seed & Spark's Creative Advisory Council as well as the Alliance for Women's Health and Prevention's (AWHP) Advisory Council. Her community involvement continues as a philanthropist who devotes her time to several local charities focused on disadvantaged youth and underserved minorities.
